

Northeast Ohio Economics Workshop Call for Papers

The Cleveland State University Economics Department and the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland invite submissions for the third annual Northeast Ohio Economics Workshop. The workshop will be hosted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland on Saturday, November 14. The goal of the workshop is to provide economists in Northeast Ohio with an opportunity to present their research and to foster ties between area researchers who may have similar interests. The workshop is a great opportunity for junior faculty to network with one another and receive feedback on their research.

Last year's program consisted of fourteen papers presented by economists from various institutions throughout Northeast Ohio. The program is still available online:
http://academic.csuohio.edu/kosteas_b/Workshop.html

Submissions in all areas of economic research are welcome. Papers in the early stages of development are welcome and encouraged. If you are interested in presenting, submit either an extended abstract or a working paper by Monday, October 19. Submissions in the area of Macroeconomics should be sent to Murat Tasci at Murat.Tasci@clev.frb.org. All other submissions should be sent to Vasilis Kosteas at b.kosteas@csuohio.edu. Please include the phrase 'economics workshop' in the subject line. We plan to have the schedule together by October 26.

We hope that many of you will be able to attend the workshop.

Sincerely,

Vasilis (Bill) Kosteas
Assistant Professor, Dept. of Economics
Cleveland State University

Murat Tasci
Research Economist
Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland